Hill Intermediate Students Learn about Inferencing

Third Graders at Hill Intermediate recently became "Inference Detectives" in order to solve the crime of "Who Kidnapped Mr. Wagner?". Students were given the opportunity to visit the "crime scene" to collect clues that would later lead them to the culprit. Students used their inferencing skills during the lesson to take the clues that they were given in the crime scene, as well as suspect interviews to gather evidence and solve the mystery. We are happy to report that Mr. Wagner was safely returned.

Bick Primary

Students in Mrs. Miller's class enjoyed a celebrity guest reader on Wednesday, February 27. Mrs. Miller entered a contest on B105 and won the visit! Local radio personality, Jason Stattman read "The Story of Ferdinand" by Munro Leaf. Each child also received a copy of the book compliments of Joseph Beth Booksellers. It was a special treat and an enjoyable way for children to continue to enjoy reading books. Thank you, Mrs. Miller for entering the contest!
